REFLECTIONS!!

By Frank Cammallere

Mirror , mirror be my friend today reflect me in a different way.

The face I've seen throughout the years it's not the same confirmed

My fears

You reflect the truth so clear and bold I can't believe I'm getting old.

I promise to keep you clear and clean if you in turn be kind not mean

Show me what I want to see

I will keep you very close to me

KOFFEE KLATCH

We Have Koffee Klatch every Tuesday Morning at 8:45- 10.am We have some lively chats and a few disagreements and just thoughts about everyday things. PAULETTE KRAMER: DID YOU KNOW??

That our oceans are becoming warmer more acidic and contain less oxygen. Sea levels are also rising. Combined with the impacts of overfishing, pollution and habitat Destruction this is heading to marine biodiversity loss. Paul Watson says: the reality is That if the oceans die, We Die. -because the ocean provides all of those things which make it possible for us to live on this planet. Since 1950 there has been a 40% diminishment of Phytoplankton population a vital factor of our oceans. Lets work together to save our Oceans.

THE OCEAN POLLUTION-BERG

PLASTIC WASTE IS JUST THE TIP OF A LARGER PROBLEM

Pollution of the oceans is widespread, worsening, and in most countries poorly controlled. Human activities result in a complex mixture of substances entering the aquatic environment.

More than 80% arises from land-based sources

It reaches the oceans through rivers, runoff, atmospheric deposition and direct discharges. Ocean pollution has multiple negative impacts on ecosystems and human health, particularly in vulnerable populations.

1 PLASTIC WASTE

THE TIP OF THE POLLUTION-BERG

Plastic is a rapidly increasing and highly visible component of ocean pollution. An estimated 10 million metric tons enter the seas each year. Plastic pollution threatens marine mammals, fish and seabirds. It breaks down into microplastic and nanoplastic particles, containing multiple manufacturing chemicals that can affect wildlife, humans, including species consumed by humans.

2 OIL SPILLS

AN AQUATIC KILLER

Oil spills have occurred with increasing frequency in recent years as the result of growing global demand for petroleum. These spills have resulted in direct release of millions of tons of crude oil and other petroleum products into the oceans. Petroleum-based pollutants reduce photosynthesis in marine microorganisms that generate oxygen. They also disrupt food sources, destroy fragile habitats such as estuaries and coral reefs, and foul beaches.

3 MERCURY

QUICKSILVER BULLETS

Mercury is released from two main sources - coal combustion and small-scale gold mining. Exposures of infants in utero when pregnant mothers eat contaminated seafood can cause IQ loss and serious developmental disorders. In adults, mercury increases risks for dementia and cardiovascular disease.

4 MANUFACTURED CHEMICALS

A HEADY COCKTAIL

Manufactured chemicals - phthalates, bisphenol A, flame retardants, perfluorinated chemicals and pharmaceutical waste, can disrupt endocrine signaling, reduce male fertility, damage the nervous system, and increase risk of cancer. They can also damage coral reefs.

5 PESTICIDES

COLLATERAL DAMAGE

pesticides are specifically designed to have biological effects, and thus even low-dose exposures can affect living organisms, including humans. Pesticides contribute to global declines in fish stocks, and can also reduce human fertility.

6 NUTRIENTS

FEEDING FRENZY

Industrial releases, runoff from animal feedlots and human sewage increase frequency and severity of harmful algal blooms (HABs), bacterial pollution and anti-microbial resistance.

THE WAY FORWARD

World leaders who take bold, evidence-based action to stop pollution at source will be critical to preventing ocean pollution and safeguarding human health. Measures such as these could help with the six problems:

1 Better management of plastic waste Bans on single-use plastic	4 Chemical control policies Mandatory premarket toxicity testing
2 Wide-scale transition to renewable fuels	5 Bans on persistent organic pollutants (POPs) Control of industrial discharges
3 Banning mercury use Eliminating coal combustion	6 Better treatment of sewage Reduced applications of fertilizers
ALL Transition to a circular economy Building scientific capacity Embracing green chemistry Designation of Marine Protected Areas (MPAs)

~QUOTE:~

A wise person will hear and increase in learning, the person of understanding, will acquire skill to steer his course Rightly.

I know you have been lying awake at night wondering why baby diapers have brand names such as "Luvs", "Huggies," and "Pampers", while undergarments for old people are called "Depends".

Well here is the low down on the whole thing.

When babies crap in their pants, people are still gonna Luv'em, Hug'em and Pamper'em.

When old people crap in their pants, it "Depends" on who's in the will!

Glad I got that straightened out so you can rest your mind.

4 Community Emergency Response Team (CERT)

The CERT team is composed of community-minded volunteers who are interested in assisting the City and their neighbors before, during, and after an emergency. To become a CERT member, residents must attend a City-funded, 5-week CERT Academy which is provided by Coconut Creek's Fire Rescue Department. CERT members assist City leaders at events such as the annual Butterfly Festival and the 5K Butterfly Run.
